Nasirat Dallas Trip to Perot Museum of Natural Science Dallas Jun 2013

On June 13th 2013 Dallas Nasirat went on a fun filled trip to the Dallas Perot Museum of Natural Science. In this four story museum they went on a "Journey through the Solar System", a bone rattling ride on an " Earth quake platform" and a voyage deep down into the earth to experience what it takes to dig for natural gas. Coming face to face with the remains of huge dinosaurs, jumping up and down on musical stairs, donning lab coats to conduct biological experiments and running against virtual competitors were among the many exciting activities. After more than four hours the unwilling Nasirat were told that it was time to have some lunch and go home. Among promises that another trip be arranged soon the girls arrived back at the Mosque, tired but happy and ready to be picked up by their parents.
